CSI International is pleased to announce the acquisition of several mainframe products from Software Pursuits, Inc., a legendary innovator in the mainframe industry. Software Pursuits has graciously transferred ownership of SPRI (including SPRI-RJE and SPRI-QVIEW), PLF, and DOCS to CSI International.

We are excited that Software Pursuits has trusted these important products to us for continuing support and development well into the future. This year has seen many product enhancements and new products come from our development team. Adding these new offerings allows CSI International to continue its role as the leader in z/VSE® solutions and innovations.

As we train new developers in our in-house academy, these product additions allow these fresh developers to experience—along with our current portfolio—some of the most stable and functional software available in our market! In addition, our sales and marketing team is excited to present these new solutions to existing and new customers.

It's been an exciting year for CSI International! But the year has not yet ended. CSI International promises to have even more exciting news for the mainframe market in the coming months.

Enthusiastically yours,

Barry Boyer
CEO
